

Dwight Hinson

In fall of 1993, I came to Ames, Iowa as a student- athlete recruited in the sport of wrestling after receiving a full ride to attend Iowa State University. I graduated in 1998 from ISU with a Bachelor Degree in Sociology and a Minor in Criminal Justice. I earned several accolades and honors as a student-athlete in wrestling which included Div 1 NCAA four time All American and three time Big 8/Big 12 Conference Champ.

In 1999, I was employed as a police officer with ISU Police Department. During my time with ISU Police, I occupied and was assigned to multiple positions as a student-athlete liaison, drug task force officer, criminal crimes investigations, threat assessments, mental health response, defense tactics instructor, engagement and inclusion officer and most recently security detail for Mary Greeley Medical Center and Emergency Room located in Ames, Iowa.

In 2021, I resigned from ISU Police after 21 years and was hired by ISU's Equal Opportunity as an investigator.

Away from the job, I enjoy traveling, coaching wrestling and spending time with wife and two kids.
